What promised to be a sensation, ended in a disappointing "fizzle" yesterday evening. A certain rabid politician thought that any man who had voted for Zwick was no very pretty name, when a man who had voted for the candidate checked the afore said rabid politician very ungentle under the chin. Motions towards a genuine encounter, Marquis of Gooseberry rules, were made, when the crowd interfered and the fun was stopped. The combatants both retired with blood in their eyes, devoutly thankful it wasn't in their heads.

THE GLOBE ROAD.

An Excellent Highway to Be Made to the Copper Camp.

From the Florence Enterprise.

Supervisor E. W. Childs and party returned last Sunday evening from their examination of the route for the proposed wagon road to Globe. They made a very thorough and exhaustive inspection of the rough and mountainous country to be penetrated and succeeded in finding a route over which a splendid road can be built with a grade not exceeding three and one-half degrees at the highest places.

The road selected starts from Florence over the old road to the Buttes to a point not far from the stone cabin, where it bends somewhat to the south over the open country and swings back to the Gila river six miles above, where a bridge is necessary.

Crossing the river a northeasterly course is taken to Mineral creek, near Thomas Haley's house, thence along the mountain side to and over the summit by an easy grade to a point near the old Mineral Creek mill, which is very close to the Gila County line and beyond which no difficulties exist in the way of road construction.

This route gives a good, hard, mountain road that can be traversed at any and all seasons without danger of wash-outs or heavy mud, and it makes the entire distance between Globe and Casa Grande a trifle under eighty miles.

The estimate of cost made by County Surveyor Colton is about thirty thousand dollars, including a substantial bridge across the river and the making of a roadway fully adapted to the requirements of the heavy freight trains that are expected to travel over it.
